The grounds adjacent to the New Brighton are to be made as attractive ns the buildings As soon as the building material is removed the entire ground extending from the ocean to the back beach will be graded, levelled, filled with soil and turfed, making a lawn which will extend nearly to high water mark on the front beach. This will be laid out in walks and promenades, which will run through groves of picturesque silver leaf poplar which grows so luxuriantly on the Island and which exhibits the most picturesque and attractive of foliages. The ocean beach in front of the hotel is probably one of the finest natural beaches in the world, and of course that cannot be improved.

AMUSEMENTS.

The guests of the establishment will always have the romantic resource of "gathering up the shells on the sea shore" by day, and by night the exhilarating and exciting sport of chas-ing sand crabs, a sport which is known only to the islanders, and which is pronounced equal if not superior to that of fox hunting. The sand crabs burrow in the sand in the day time and only emerge from their holes in the night, when they prowl about the beach in search of fish and other fish and other things thrown up by the sea. A lantern placed on the sand will attract them, but they move rapidly and are exceedingly clever dodgers. After the pleasures of the chase are ended and you have bagged two crabs, there is another pleasure still in store. The experienced hunter will place two of Kilkenny cat fight pales into the in-

OUR DEAD HEROES' GRAVES.

Whose Hillocks in Hollywood are Sadly Neglected.

A correspondent of the Richmond graves of Wheat, Hill and Pickett, in Hollywood, are in a shamefully neglected condition. Hours of search were required to find them. That of Wheat is marked only by a piece of marble ten inches high, bearing the inscriptior, "C. R. Wheat, La." Reither title nor date of birth or death wide which passed between Fairfield place, which was Virginia, and not Louisiana. The only indication of ers are now out ascertaining the extent Hill's burial place is his name cut in the granite curbstone that borders the carriage road, ten feet from the grave, while Pickett lies in the loneliest and least frequented portion of the cemetery, with nothing to show that he is held in loving or honored remembrance by any among the living. The writer makes an earnest appeal to the old soldiers and the women of the South to raise means sufficient to inclose the graves and place above them a small marble slab that shall bear some record of the virtues and heroism of the brave men who sleep there.
